The Warm-Up Is Over

2026 Valedictory Address, by John Henry Crapuchettes

You know what they always say, the first two laps are the easiest. It's the middle mile where the work really happens.

Many of you are either in or past the middle mile of your life, but bear with us here as we celebrate the start of ours. Here we are, another freshly baked batch of seniors being thrust out of the oven.

You might not be as shocked, but we all are. Our eighth grade teachers are bewildered. But we have trusted the process, and God has given the increase. By hook or by crook, we all passed junior high Latin, slipped through later literatures, and were plopped on a stage in front of a panel of judges to present our 6000 word theses. Had our third grade minds been made aware of this impending task, it would have seemed comparable to scaling Mount Everest barefoot.

And as we cross the finish line now, it can be easy to look at us and just remember the successful finish, forgetting the hours and years that went into such a moment.

Alternatively, it can be tempting to recall our younger years and wonder what happened. Yes, we do grow up so fast, you grandmas have a point. It is not a minor task to teach a group of energetic and confused five year olds how to stop making sounds, how to read, how to write, and how to contain the urge to draw on each other with crayola markers. But, through much long-suffering and an overwhelming amount of pink slips of paper, our untamed spirits were subdued, and we learned about important principles. Like the alphabet. And with a new tool like this, we set to work learning and chanting about prepositions, participles, and the parts of a sentence, all the while getting a daily dose of Bible reading from our teachers before class each morning.

Then we were ushered out of the grammar stage and hit Junior High, where the quantity of our questions increased, and the quality of our humor decreased. Our teachers still came to school every day, so it must not have been that bad, right? They began the long and slow process of integration, showing us connections between what we had learned in all of our classes, especially Bible class. On top of that, they taught us to channel our curiosity to learn how to form a valid argument in order to properly fight tooth and nail over the essence of a Sandwich.

And lastly, we stumbled upon the Rhetoric stage, spanning the last few years of our lives thus far. It was here that we learned the hard lesson that no one cares about the essence of a sandwich.

We were taught to be persuasive as well as enjoyable to listen to, though you can really be the judge of whether that endeavor was for naught. We were taught to put our classical Christian education to work to convert the masses, starting with the U of I students who were lucky enough to run into us on campus.

And now we have ended up here. The journey from innocently learning that "A is for apple" to deeply analyzing speeches from Hitler and Churchill is a seemingly impossible one, though it still seems to happen every year. The reason it makes no sense is because it is an impressive transformation. Logos's ability to continue to churn out these surprising progressions is a testament to her vision, her education, and her teachers.

We have been very blessed to have parents that send us to a school like Logos, one that understands how kids learn and adjusts teaching accordingly. And this year, we were extra blessed in that God gave us a new building in which to educate the teeming hordes. The beautiful, new, brick box would have been a fantastic dream to those small groups holed up in the old roller skating rink, lo those many years ago. But parents and teachers, former students and grandparents surpassed their previous donations and generously gave, so the upperclassmen could be moved to the new campus to make room for the younger students. The donations to make the Lewis building possible do not stand alone in their significance in our lives. Parents especially have done so much more. Mine are, of course, the best. None of the rest of yours even come close. And since I have the microphone, none of you can argue at this point, so I am right...

No, I'm kidding, you are all entitled to your own wrong opinions. But in all seriousness, from the entire class of 2026, thank you to all our parents. No matter how many times we were forced to diagram a sentence or dutifully chant the kings of Israel, it would not have mattered if it were not for our parents. We are eternally grateful for every lunch you packed, every spanking you gave, every late night you stayed up to concoct a craft project or edit a thesis paper together, and, more importantly, every tuition bill you paid. Thank you for forcing us onto the campus (almost) every day, and for getting us ready for a life without guardrails. Because that is what you are sending us into.

These last fourteen years of school were a good warm-up. But the best is presumably yet to come. And so is the hardest. We have not yet run the race my mom's, since we learned our lesson), the time that this transformation from toddler to senior took will definitely prove to be the easiest years of our lives. They were fun and they were productive, but many are the days to come when we will wish the biggest worries in our lives would just be the memorization of the first two sentences of Paradise Lost. So you have given us a great warm up and primed us well for our race.

We have clearly gotten one of the best preparations in the country. And the worst thing to do when you are fit to throw down an outstanding time is to be mentally weak. Waste everyone's work, including your own, and slack off when it gets unpleasant. So as we go along our merry way, if you see one of us so far in our head that we are wasting this fabulous education, please do something about it. Maybe run up alongside the slacker and tell him it's time to go. Sometimes that is all it takes.

But we are not there yet. We are not yet to the exhausting middle of the race. We are still celebrating finishing our warm up. Even though we hope it will prove to have been relatively easy compared to the rest of our life, there were definitely times when we were unsure if we could really make it. We have. So all glory be to God. He has blessed us with a fantastic start, filled with godly teachers, stunning campuses, loving parents, and the occasional surprise gas leak. Now it is time to put that warm up to use and run the race of your life. Let's go get 'em. ☕

Salutatorian Titus Jankovic

that is set before us, as Paul commands us. Rather, we have reached the finish line of our warm-up. And we now stand here on the start line, looking out at what is to come. In any sporting event, you always do a warm up a little bit before your race or game starts. It is relatively easy. A light activation which prepares you for the difficulty to come. And it is difficulty that is to come. As our class stands on the start line, we are filled with the usual nervous anticipation for the pain we are about to endure and excitement for the result that could come out of that pain.

Despite the complaints that have pervaded our classrooms throughout the past fourteen years (except, eventually,

Defending God's Created Reality

by Sara Casebolt ('24)

THIS JANUARY, I had the honor to speak on the steps of the United States Supreme Court as oral arguments were heard in the Hecox v. Little case, which was challenging Idaho's Fairness in Women's Sports Act. As the first law of its kind in the nation, Idaho's law was designed to preserve women's sports for females only. During my remarks, I shared my own experience of competing against a male athlete during my senior year of high school and how that moment reinforced my conviction that women's sports require a fair and level playing field.

This opportunity reminded me how grateful I am for the education I received at Logos School. Logos consistently taught me that truth is rooted in God's Word rather than the shifting values of culture, and that foundation gave me the ability and courage to speak publicly on this issue.

By the grace of God, the Supreme Court has since affirmed that states have the constitutional authority to reserve women's sports for females, a significant victory for fairness, safety, and opportunity for female athletes across the country, including myself. Yet the job is not finished. More than twenty states still have no laws protecting women's sports. This decision is a reminder that truth can prevail, but it also reminds us that freedom requires faithful stewardship. Laws do not write themselves, and cultural change does not happen by accident. We must be a generation that has the courage to stand firm for justice, the wisdom to do so with humility, and the conviction to defend truth wherever God places us.

FUNDRAISING UPDATES

NEW TOLKIEN BUILDING IS UNDERWAY

THERE HAS BEEN a flurry of activity over the past several months: an amazing auction that raised the funds for The Colonnade at Logos North, Golf and Track trips to state, finals week, awards ceremonies, and graduation. Quietly progressing right next to the Lewis Building, Tolkien has been taking shape.

It started with a simple groundbreaking ceremony toward the end of April while excavators created a construction access and then dug the foundation. After a very productive summer, Tolkien is now framed and dried in! We have raised well over half the funds for Tolkien and need just under $1.2 million to finish it. ☸

8TH GRADE HISTORY TRIP

The Class of 2029 took to the road for their long-awaited Northwest History Trip.

Traveling in style on charter buses, they made stops at some of their favorite places: Cataldo Mission and Crystal Gold Mine, while adding some new stops: The Pulaski Tunnel Trail in Kellogg and bowling in the 106 year-old Morning Club in Mullan.

They played games at Travelers Rest and had a snowball fight on Lolo Pass. They finished the trip following the Nez Perce trail towards Lewiston. With great weather, enthusiastic chaperones, and perfect planning by Mr. Carlson, they had a fantastic time closing out their 8th grade year and preparing to join the high school ranks. ☸

CHAMBER

Choir

The Logos Chamber Choir was selected to perform at this year's All-State conference in Nampa.

Schools from all over the state submit auditions, and Logos was one of only two high school mixed choirs to be selected. This is the highest honor bestowed on a school music ensemble in the state of Idaho, and Logos (in the smallest 2A division) beat out schools of all sizes (up to 6A). A highlight of the trip was singing Psalm 43 in the rotunda of the Idaho State Capitol Building. ☺

Low Protocol

Low protocol is an evening for our freshmen and sophomores. The evening began at the 1912 Center with pictures followed by dinner and toasting. Then they headed to the University of Idaho for a fun concert.

High Protocol

This year's high protocol for our juniors and seniors began at Logos North for pictures and then they drove to Spokane for a tour of the historic Davenport Hotel and a delicious dinner in the ballroom. They walked to the Opera House for an amazing performance of the Broadway production of "The Lion King."

SPRING 2026 ATHLETICS

Track

HIGH SCHOOL

This year's Logos Knights track team won the ultimate prize as BOTH boys and girls teams won the State Champion titles! Led by 7-time state champion coach Gwen Spencer, none of this would have been possible without the talented dedicated athletes and the commitment, expertise, and whole-hearted buy-in to the distinctives of our program of assistant coaches Tyler Anderson, Caleb Wright, John Carnahan, Justin Spencer ('05), Nate Wilson ('96), Wayne Browning, Bridgid Monjure ('23), Betsy Becker ('99), athletic trainer Andrew Becker, and our intrepid activities director, Patrick Lopez.

Individual State Champions included: John Henry Crapuchettes: 800, 1600, 3200, SMR; Chloe Jankovic: 800, SMR; Ole Sundlie: 4x400, SMR; Titus Jankovic: 4x400; Baxter Covington: 4x400; Asaph Grieser: 4x400, SMR; Justice Mallory: SMR; Piper Beauchamp: SMR; Betty Atwood: SMR; Quinn Covington: SMR.

John Henry Crapuchettes was the 2026 Boys Team Captain for his leadership on and off the track, his love of running and encouragement of others; and Emily Bowen helped to spur on the athletes in her team as well as those on other teams. Max Grauke and Eva Becker were honored with the Knights Award for epitomizing Gratitude, Sacrifice, and Excellence.

JUNIOR HIGH

With 68 athletes the junior high track team had fantastic showings this spring! Head coach Clara Anderson ('22) was assisted by Rob Sentz, Theo Sentz ('22), Isaac Grauke ('01), Ty Knight, Joe Gecsey, Nick Studt, and Thomas Bowen

('25). The team was able to learn and improve throughout the season with many athletes taking down Logos Junior High records. Both the boys' and girls' teams took home the overall wins from the Troy JH Invite & Pomeroy MS Meet, and the girls also earned the 1st place trophy at the Kamiah Invite.

Golf

by Nicole Nadreau ('26)

This year's Logos golf team saw immense growth in numbers and talent. With 23 golfers on the squad, Logos had its first ever full boys and girls JV and varsity teams. Coached by Ed Driskill, assisted by Jon Tollefson and Jordan Smith, the team showed huge improvement this year. Team captains Hailey Wambeke, Nicole Nadreau, Ezra Shafer, and Ryle Grauke continued helping build the program.

After a competitive season with a couple individual wins from sophomores Henry Driskill, with a 2 over par win at Circling Raven leading the 1st team win, and Darcy Tollefson, with an 85 at the Genesis Prep Invite, the Logos Knights golf team had a strong showing at the District Tournament with both teams easily securing a spot at state. The girls team placed second overall. Darcy and senior Hailey Wambeke received individual medals, placing 1st and 6th.

The boys team placed 3rd overall, with Henry receiving a 2nd place medal after a birdie putt on the playoff hole. The teams went on to compete at the two-day state tournament in Payette, where they continued to improve on last year's scores. Henry Driskill and Darcy Tollefson were named team MVPs for their diligent effort and consistently low scores throughout the season. Jael Otto and Asher Carlson were the Most Improved, both cutting last years' scores by over 20 strokes each.

Lacrosse

by Adriana Gartrell ('26)

This year, the Logos lacrosse team was led by head coach Ian McManus and assisted by Mike Church, Abel Macintosh, and Dane Kowalick. Throughout the year, the boys worked hard and continued to improve their skill sets amid the highs and lows of their performance. The team was led not only by its coaches but also by the many senior players. These included Peter Story, Miles Miller, Joseph Sensing, Ben Casebolt, Anthony Wright, Honour Mallery, Joseph Graham, Dane Wilzewske, and Nico Paradiso. Peter Story was named the Defense MVP and received the Knight Award, and Miles Miller received the Offensive MVP Award.

Basketball

by Adriana Gartrell

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS

The Logos Knights boys varsity team finished the season at 11-12. Coached by Dean Brunson, and assisted by Scott Brunson, Aaron Rench, and Nick Holloway, the team was led by captains senior Ace Grieser, and juniors Canaan Unger and Nate Monjure, who were joined by Gideon Haney, Titus Jankovic, Ryle Grauke, Henry Driskill, Max Grauke, Zane Holloway, and Cormac Rench on the varsity squad. Nate also received All-League 2nd Team honors. The team played a full summer session this June and is ready for success next year!

This year's JV basketball team consisted of 10 boys. The team was coached by Logos alum Isaac Gruake ('01); and assisted by Logos alum Bear Lopez ('25). Overall, the team had a successful season and is working to fill the shoes of the four senior boys as they graduated.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS

by Catherine Mortimore ('27)

The Varsity Girls Basketball Team continued building a solid program under the leadership of head coach Joe Casebolt ('96) and assistants Joe Kline, Ellie Kline, and Jaiden Stromberg. Team MVP, and sole senior, Elena Spillman set a new Logos girls' single-game scoring record with 37 points against Clearwater Valley on senior night!

Elena received All-League 2nd Team honors and junior Jemma Driskill received Honorable Mention and was also the team Knight Award winner. Coach Casebolt selected Elena and Jemma as team captains this year "because of their commitment to our basketball program and for the care they have shown for it. Over multiple seasons, they have invested in growing the success of the team, and their offseason discipline is the example of how we will build a successful program in the future. Throughout the season, they led with their voices, their actions, and their work ethic and earned the respect of their teammates.

Jemma and Elena are constant sources of encouragement, and their leadership has played a meaningful role in pushing our team forward and shaping the culture of our program." Freshmen Quinn Covington and Lucy Points joined the varsity squad of Zoe Doane, Peyton Bentley, Liv Rench, Marisol Wilson, Jemma, and Elena. With just one senior leaving, the team plans to continue building their success in the Whitepine League next year. The JV girls' basketball team, coached by Joel Cohen, had a successful season with some exciting wins, including one in overtime.

JUNIOR HIGH

by Adrianna Gartrell ('26)

The junior high boys' basketball team had a successful season. Coached by Joseph Schooland (8th grade) and alum Brian Kohl (7th grade), they competed in both the intramural season and the Whitepine League, which provided the boys with a host of opportunities and allowed for new experiences on the court.

The junior high girls' basketball teams were coached by Kathy Miller and Emily Ealy and they had a great season of learning new skills and playing competitively in the Whitepine League. ☸

Mock Trial

The Logos Mock Trial had another successful season!

The Logos A team, coached by Ava Driskill ('21), placed 1st at Mock Trial Regionals and was joined at State by the Logos B team, coached by Zach Atwood ('23) and Jacob Gartrell ('24), which placed 3rd!

The C team, coached by Logos math teacher Mr. King, had a great day as well, with multiple members receiving awards. Regional Judges' Award Winners were: Ben Casebolt, David Henreckson, Joseph Holm, and Max Paradiso (A team); Christian Carlson, Isaac Littrell, and Sasha Smith (B team); Abby Darrah and Belle Lopez (C team).

The A team (Ellen Carlson, Adriana Gartrell, Mana Shafer, Ben Casebolt, Joseph Holm, Max Paradiso, David Henreckson, Arwen Wismer, and Emma Darrah) went on to a second place finish at State, losing by just one point, on one ballot. Senior Ben Casebolt and junior David Henreckson were selected by the judges as Outstanding Witness and Outstanding Attorney! ⊕
